

Research

Many times, the role of a copywriter requires research about a subject that is not within the copywriter's purview. This is normal. In many cases, careful research is mandatory in order to write copy that is accurate and reflects a voice of authority. The best copywriters do thorough research before writing anything.